Website Privacy Policy

Whiting & Partners believe in your fundamental right to privacy and the principles laid down by the Data Protection Act 1998. When you visit www.whitingandpartners.co.uk (this site), we may receive personal information about you, as follows:

Contact information, to allow us to respond to enquiries from you about services which you have requested further information on.

Not personally identifiable information about which areas of our site are being visited and for how long.

We do not use cookies to collect personal information.

All information obtained from these sources will be retained by us for as long as we deem appropriate. This information is held confidentially, in accordance with our normal internal data protection procedures, and is only used for marketing purposes. If you do not want us to use the information in this way, please contact us.

No information obtained from this site is disclosed to third parties, unless, where appropriate, to either our IT Services or Financial Services business divisions.

Under the Data Protection Act 1998, you may request details of personal information which we hold about you. Please send such requests to our Data Controller, Mr J D Cater. If you believe any of this information to be incorrect, please advise us accordingly.

We reserve the right to change this privacy policy from time to time. Nothing in this statement is intended to create a contractual agreement between us and any visitor to this site.
